St. Thomas: Dear wonderful people. Thank you for your kind, loving prayers, beautiful cards and all kindness towards me. Will forever be cherished. Love to all, Patricia Loethen

BISHOP MCKNIGHT'S MAY PRAYER INTENTION: For all expecting mothers, biological and adoptive; that through the intercession of Mary, Mother of the Church, they may prepare for the new life in the womb and may receive the support of a nurturing community of faith in the raising of their children.

PASTORS MEDITATION: 4th Sunday of Easter: MOTHER'S DAY, GOOD SHEPHERD AND VOCATION SUNDAY (AA. 13:14, 43-52; Ps. 100; Rev. 7:9, 14b-17; Jn. 10:27-30)

Today we thank our mothers, pray for them and honor them by celebrating Mother's Day, offering our mothers on the altar of God. This is a day to admit gratefully the fact that none of us is able to return in the same measure, all the love that our mothers have given us. Their influence on us, their children is so great that it affects the children throughout their lives. Our mothers not only gave us birth but nursed us, nurtured us, trained us in their religious beliefs and practices, taught us good manners and ideal behavior, disciplined us as best as they could and made us good citizens of our country, our Church, and our society. Hence, it is highly proper for us to express our love and gratitude to our mothers by our presence (if possible), gifts and prayers on Mother's Day. We offer this Eucharistic celebration on Mother's Day for all the mothers in our church, whether they are alive here or have gone for their eternal reward. Hence, let us lavish our love on our mothers and express our gratitude for them in the form of fervent prayers offered for them before God, and let us ask our Heavenly Mother to take care of our earthly mothers. The 4th Sunday of Easter is also called "Good Shepherd" Sunday after the image of the Good Shepherd presented in our readings today. Typically, we devote this particular Sunday to fervent prayers for Priestly and Religious Vocations. The idea of the shepherd is very long and deep in the history of salvation and it begins all the way with Abraham. And the Jewish people were all shepherds. Abraham was a shepherd, Isaac was a shepherd including King David was a shepherd as a boy. And so the idea of the shepherd leading sheep, this was a very responsible task and a very responsible job. And when the poets wrote poetry and they sang their songs, they enshrined God as their shepherd, who was the true shepherd. When Jesus came, He said to the people, "I am the good shepherd. I know mine and they know me. They hear my voice and they follow me. "And no one will take them away from me. And I will give them life here and I will give them life everlasting, for I will journey with them and I will not let anyone grasp them and take them away from my hand. These sheep belong to my Father and He has appointed me to take care of them. For God says, "I am your shepherd, and my Son is your shepherd, and he walks in great silence through your whole life, every morning, all day, day after day, month after month, year after year." But you have to listen and hear and open your heart to the wonder of the Good Shepherd's silence caring for you, worrying about you, guiding you through all kinds of situations and yet you know that he will never leave you, he will always be there and his joy is to be at the Centre of the silence in our own lives. Witnessing to the faith will involve persecution of one sort or another and that is where our real joy lies: living as true Disciples of Christ. Even if the world does violence against us, we ultimately enjoy God's protection. Faithfulness to God means living at his pace. Patient endurance in the day-to-day trials pleases God. What gives us assurance, is the faithful listening to the voice of Christ, the Good Shepherd. This listening does not remain passive; it moves us to follow Jesus in concrete ways. What was the cause behind Israel's endless cycle of exile and trouble? Its people didn't listen to God. In our day, discerning the voice of Christ requires attentiveness to what the Pope, and bishops in communion with him, teach. Therein lays our assurance that the Father watches over us. In fact, "the disciples were filled with joy and the Holy Spirit." These great shepherds of the early Church, out of love for their flock called them to faithfulness. Those who heard their voice and believed "were delighted" because they heard in Paul and Barnabas the voice of Jesus Christ. What set Paul and Barnabas apart from other shepherds, was their willingness to truly love their flock. We can recognize a true shepherd by his love for his sheep. And true love always involves some degree of sacrifice, even suffering. In our world today, there are many figures, things, and powers competing to be our shepherds, to lead us in the way they think we should go. Politicians try to lead us to toward or away from this or that cause. Universities try to lead us toward this or that philosophy. The media tries to lead us toward this or that set of values they think we should embrace or disregard. There are so many influences in our lives. To whom shall we go? How can we tell the good voices from the bad? Who are the good shepherds? True shepherds are those who lead their flock with self-sacrificial love. When the wolves come among them, does the shepherd run away, afraid for his own welfare, neglecting that of his sheep? Or does he stay, throwing himself among them, standing guard and confronting the wolves in order to protect the sheep? This can be a test for anything or anyone trying to shepherd your life. What does that shepherd do when you are really in danger, a danger that could envelope the shepherd too? The story of the good shepherd that we hear from Scripture, about the shepherd who had one hundred sheep but was willing to leave 99 of them in order to find the one that is lost, teaches us a valuable lesson. All of humanity was the lost sheep lost in the desert, lost in our sins and distant from God. But before we could be lost forever, Jesus our Good Shepherd left the glory of heaven, so to speak, left the 99 and came among us to reclaim us as his own, to take our lot upon his shoulders and carry us home. Jesus said, "My sheep hear my voice; I know them, and they follow me. I give them eternal life, and they shall never perish." Through all the voices crying out to lead us, can we hear and recognize the voice of Jesus? When it comes to the Catholic Church, where we find His Voice, some of the shepherds have misused their position among the flock and have hurt them. Let us be careful though not to confuse the misleading voice of a few "wolves in sheep's clothing" for the larger Good voice of the whole. Today we must show to those inside and outside of the Church that the Church is still Good, that Jesus Christ is her Head and Shepherd and through the Church continues and expands his ministry of healing and forgiveness to all of mankind for all generations. That the Church is still True, it still loves, still brings the satisfaction of every deepest human longing. That through the sacraments of the Church we may still partake of the very Divine Life of God and are sustained by his own Precious Body and Blood. That the Church still suffers with us, prays with us, rejoices with us, worships with us, lives with us and is with us when we die, "wiping away every tear from our eyes." To do my own part in restoring this voice where it has fallen short. To do my own part in assisting Jesus in saving the lost sheep and calling them home. Together, we can cooperate with the Good Shepherd to help move the Church forward in truth, honesty, and virtue. Together, we can remain strong so the one lost sheep might find a faithful fold in which to be refreshed and restored in times of despair. Together, we can work and pray for peace and unity that can only come from Jesus Christ, the Good Shepherd. Have a blessed week! Fr. Leonard Mukiibi
